Seaside Cannot Wait

By Pearl Carey
Seaside City Councilwoman

Seaside cannot wait 12 years for a completed profitable urban renewal project. Unless urban renewal is accountable to an elected decision-making body (the city council), then we have no jurisdiction over what they do, nor when they do it. Therefore, it is imperative that the Seaside City Council take over the responsibility for urban renewal decisions.

The special study session with the urban renewal, at my request, was informational for citizens of Seaside. I had hoped more people would have attended.

This study was to get the urban renewal-documented facts about monies spent and what they were spent for. It was also to find out what Seaside has contributed from General Fund monies, such as the storm drainage fund, gasoline tax and annexation of Fort Ord.

It would be interesting to know who paid the commission to the person that engaged the car dealers for the Gateway Project.

Mr. Hoss stated that Seaside has not contributed its one quarter share because of credits received from other sources made available for obtaining credits. Therefore, Seaside has spent more than $26,000 of general fund monies since 1964 of projects.

The most important of these, to me, is storm drainage because Seaside already has a storm drainage fund. So the rumor that Seaside is paying a one-quarter share is not true.

Mr. Hoss also said that $70,000 has been paid for Seaside for other sources. All of this is very interesting to me as a councilman because it is important that each citizen have this information. However, it is my opinion, that this is the information that is only available to the City Manager and Mayor and they keep it as secret as possible.

I have continually asked for study sessions with all departments of the city to no avail. In all probability, I would not have had the session with urban renewal had I not opposed the budget for 1971-72, unless it was explained at a study session. It was very interesting to read the Mayor's comments at the Local Forum.

tion Commission meeting. He accused the new council of raising taxes last year. Now he says that the loss of additional Fort Ord boundaries will cause Seaside to face a 60 cent increase in its tax rate for next year. How inconsistent can one be!

Now that we have documented facts from urban renewal, how about some itemized documented facts from our City Manager.

We must protect our citizenry by making them aware of all functions of city government. It is a known fact that people are not accustomed to campaign promises being kept and a continuing effort in seeing that the issues become a reality.

Pit Deal Is Off

Superior Court Judge Stanley Lawson recently ruled in favor of Seaside in the controversial Pit real estate transaction.

The lawsuit was brought against the city by Dominic and Nina Mineo, who own a small shopping center at Broadway and Noche Buena street.

Early last year, the city council voted 3-2 to exchange the former city hall site at 1758 Del Monte Boulevard for the Mineo's equity in the center. After two of the councilmen in favor of the transaction lost their seats in the last election, the council voted 4-1 to halt the transaction.

The Mineos, following this council action, went into court to force completion of the transaction. Judge Lawson ruled that the exchange should be stopped because of the existence of a third party. The Bank of America held a $43,000 deed of trust on the Mineo property.

Lawson said that it was clearly established that the bank would not permit the transfer to Seaside nor let Seaside assume the loan on the Mineo's property.

Other action concerning the city council that occurred last week included a study session that was held to discuss the complexities of urban renewal financing.

The session was called at the request of Pearl Carey to clear up the city's role in the Statement By Councilman Stephen Ross

Commenting on the special council meeting called by the Mayor and its after effects last Monday, March 22, Steve Ross made the following statement. "It is unfortunate that we have allowed personalities to cloud the real issues that face our city to the extent that we have. I pleaded to all concerned to avoid this division in our city, but without success.

We must respect our own system of government or it will fall of its own weight. The mayor, council, city manager city attorney, each has a specific role to play in city government. For the mayor to act as city attorney would be as wrong as for the city attorney to act as mayor. We must respect the position of each involved especially in the time of crisis. The city attorney must be allowed to do his job, just as the city clerk must be allowed to do his. The mayor and council must not administer from their position. And the city attorney and city manager must not legislate from their position. We all should have the wisdom to know the difference.

"As for the two election dates (referendum on the redevelopment and the recall) it would be fine to have them both together if this were possible to save the taxpayers money. However, it is reasonable to expect us to set the recall election at a time that will give us the maximum time to prepare for it. The recall was forced on us, we didn't ask for it."

payment of the four current redevelopment projects.

The city has a 25 percent share in the costs of these projects and Mrs. Carey wanted to know how these were met. Russell Hoss, executive director of urban renewal, said that only $40,000 will come from the city general fund, although Seaside's total commitment is $5.2 million projected through the 1971 fiscal year.

The difference lies in the fact that in providing its one-quarter share, the city gets credit for public works projects constructed within redevelopment areas with funds from other agencies.

MPUSD Board Hears Reports On Goals

The Monterey Peninsula Unified School District Board of Education is ahead of most California school districts in that for several years it has been studying and has appointed committees to define educational goals, a basic part of PPBS (Planning Programming Budgeting System) that is mandated by the state for 1972-73 to be in effect by the fall of 1973.

At a board study session recently it was noted that the state emphasis seems to be directed toward discovery of the exact costs of each educational program -- not an easy task the way school account now are established by law. G. Gervaise Davis III, MPUSD board president, said he agrees with some of the committed reports that although thought analysis should be made, the major thrust should be of whether they are realistic and can be met and the time and energy expended as well as the money factor.

Last year the MPUSD Curriculum Council devised tentative objectives of education which were used by the several study committees as a beginning framework. Study groups include a business and industry committee, a citizens' committee and two student committees -- one each from Monterey and Seaside High Schools.

James Harrison, associate superintendent, has the task with a staff committee to weld the various reports into a whole for board review and preliminary adoption in the next few months. Each committee will have opportunity to comment on the proposed goals prior to tentative adoption. The community will be further involved before final adoption.

An example of a goal stated in the citizens' committee report is that the student "understands, appraises and helps solve environmental problems."

Some objectives to implement that would include a study of depletion of natural resources, effects of large populations upon taxes, mineral depletion, pollution, ecological balance and social behavior.

Frank Jacobson, Monterey High School and Robert De Weese, Seaside High both of whom were on the Curriculum Council last year, discussed that initial framework that group devised. Both recommended changes.

Rockwell Hereford, chairman of the business-industry committee suggested specific changes, as did students groups headed by Sharon Ullman, Monterey High School and Mary Boyles, Seaside High School.

Students had a number of constructive ideas, including the comment that attitudes cannot be taught except by teacher or other adult examples and that the goals and objectives should be free of moral judgments.

Three members of the citizens' committee presented and discussed a 9-page report which discarded the original ideas and format and needed to implement the other goals.

There are 13 goals, which with a suggested combination of two would make a dozen general goals. Helliwell said they are not listed in priority order; the only educational priority is reading which is

Monterey High Football Coach, "Doc" Dan Albert and his wife, Joan, will be in charge of Camp Amigos when it opens up its fourth Summer Day Camp in July at All-Saints Day School in Carmel.

Dial-A-Gripe Moving Along

The Seaside Human Relations Commission, at its last regular meeting took the opportunity to welcome a new member, to hear of developments opening in apprenticeship training and to review questions for the forth-coming Seaside Dial-A-Gripe Educational Public Forum.

The new member was Melvin Fortas, a student at Seaside High School, who joins the Commission to represent "youth" in the city. Since he is below voting age, a special City Ordinance has been passed so that he could become a member of the Human Relations Commission.

Commissioner Albert N. Lockwood reported that, with government help, members of minorities may be hired by building contractors for apprenticeship training. This would eventually lead to professional journey - man careers in various building trades.

The Educational Forum has received and developed a number of questions concerning problems within the city that need further public answers. The questions will be submitted to the members of the City Council and other members of City Government, so they may prepare answers for the Public Forum.

The questions of greatest general interest concerned

Seaside City finances, the relation of the City Budget to city population, possible forthcoming tax raises, the general financial outlook of the city. Also, on the creative use of city monies toward the hiring of minorities within city government.

A question on speeding on certain residential streets is first to be referred to the Police Department for possible action.

A polluter elsewhere in Monterey County sometimes affects Seaside with his "by-product", according to prevailing winds. He is already on time extension for solving the problem and is due to ask for further extension. He will be invited to offer some explanations.

A question concerning high prices and some improper product grading in a local market may possibly be left to be solved by normal competition.

To be deferred to a future Dial-A-Gripe meeting are some questions concerning the most successful Urban Renewal projects in this area and in much of the nation, how the projects are administered and how they can be used to create needed low cost housing.

Additional questions under these and other headings are invited from the citizenry. They should be submitted to the Seaside City Manager's office, 372-4514, ext. 22. Secretary of the Commission is Nancy McClintock, 394-1378.

The Commission will have a special meeting tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m., at the Seaside City Hall Conference Room, to develop these topics and to set a date for the Public Forum. The public is invited.

The Dial-A-Gripe Forum is not a "Candidate's Night" and personal accusations and irrelevant matters are not acceptable. Rather, it is intended as a "Town Meeting", to give citizens of the city an opportunity to engage in an educational dialogue for the benefit of the citizens and the City government.

Adobe Tour

The Monterey History and Art Association will present its twenty-fourth annual Adobe Tour on Saturday, April 24, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Proceeds from the Tour are used to restore and maintain the unique adobe houses of Monterey, some of the oldest and most beautiful structures in California.

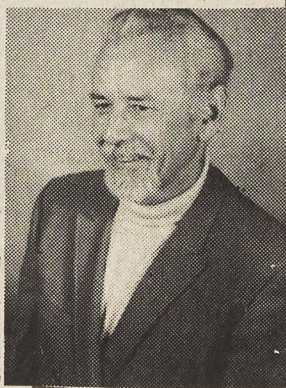

This year there will be eighteen adobe houses on the tour, most of which are private homes, gardens, and clubs open to the public for this one day only.

Publisher's Report Seaside Ripples

A. E. 'Andy' Barragan, Publisher

There are some of us starry-eyed pollyannas who never seem to lose faith that Justice will somehow prevail. Our faith was once again rewarded this week when the House of Representatives and then the United States Senate rejected President Nixon's request for an additional $290 million in development money for the thoroughly-discredited Supersonic Transport plane. This multi-billion dollar boondoggle has been kicking around the halls of Congress for the last few years, each year gathering more and more of the taxpayers money to build a transport plane that possibly won't work. It is not needed anyway, since most of the large 747's, which up to now are our largest transports, are going back an forth across the country and oceans half empty.

Even worse than that, what many of us didn't realize, because we never read the small print or bother to read a news story to its completion, is that the government (taxpayers) was putting up $1.3 billion as their share of the development costs and private industry was only putting up a total of $400 million. By March 30, the government had spent $865 million of its share and the industry had only spent $223 million of their money. This money, already spent and that about to be spent if it hadn't been stopped, was only for the development of the plane. There is no telling how much more we would have had to spend to put the plane

Council To Appear In Court

The city of Seaside is again heading to court.

Superior court judge Ralph Drummond has ordered the city council to appear at a hearing tomorrow to explain its scheduling of the recall and referendum elections. The council will also be required, at that time, to defend the wording of the referendum question.

The hearing was granted at the request of Bernard J. Dolan, Albert J. Lioi and Epifanio Cruz, who are the leaders of the recall movement against Stephen Ross, Oliver Murray, Gerald McGrath and Pearl Carey. They also spearheaded the drive to have question of the council takeover of Seaside's urban redevelopment agency put to a referendum vote.

This group seeks a writ of mandate which would make it necessary for both the recall and referendum elections to take place on the same day.

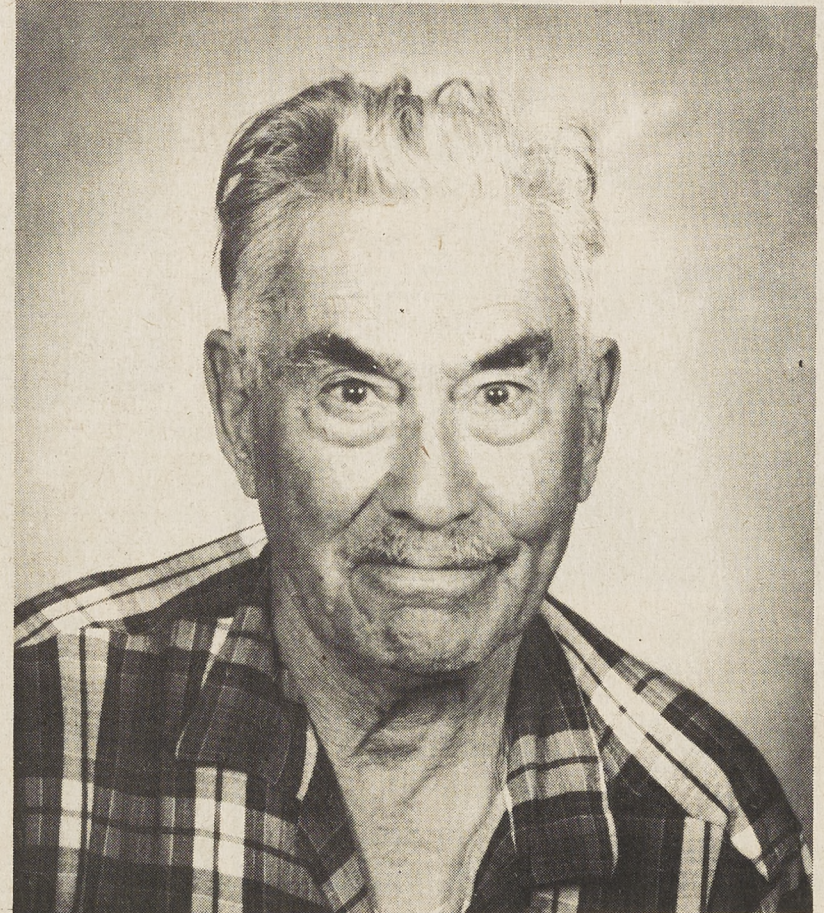

The action came about because Donald Smith, interim city attorney, told the council that the setting of a recall election could be done only at a regular meeting.

Smith also explained that because of differing time requirements for recalls and referendums it would be impossible to have both elections on the same day.

However, the citizens' group wants the elections on the same day to ease the cost to the citizens of Seaside. The group also raised the question about the wording of the referendum question.

As of now, the voters will be asked if they approve of the ordinance passed recently by the city council which allows them to takeover the redevelopment agency.

Faces Around the Bay

Pioneer family stock goes back 4 to 5 generations for Andy Buelna of 1692 Goodwin Street, Seaside. Mr. Buelna was born in nearby Gonzales on November 11, 1890, moved into his Goodwin Street home in 1934 and he says that there weren't over five other residences within sight at that time. Mr. Buelna has five daughters and a son. Three of his daughters still live here on the peninsula. Andy's wife also was of a pioneer farming family named Sonneksen and his mother was from a famous Spanish family - Sobrantes.

Grooving Around the Peninsula

with BETTY MANN

Hi There, Fellow Peninsulans:

The following article is a continuation of the series of articles on "Language in the Black Culture."

Language is learned during childhood by hearing and then imitating sounds of models. Repeated imitation of sounds arranged in patterns forms linguistic habits. Thus, Language is learned through "out of awareness" processes and informal correction by the models. If the language system the child learns is the Language system of the school (standard English), the school reinforces and extends the child's primary language. If the child is disadvantaged and black, however, the language system he learns is usually a non-standard dialect of English. If this is the case, the school must teach the disadvantaged black child standard English.

The traditional language program is organized to reinforce and extend standard English skills that middle-class children acquire from their cultural environment. That is, the traditional language program emphasizes standard English analysis, descriptions, and written drills. Strangely, the traditional program emphasizes a non-oral approach to instruction.

Next week,

the continuation of
"Language in the Black

The forerunner of the handsome decorative motif on this furniture was first slowly and painstakingly carved by hand from solid wood. To assure that there is always a perfect match in every detail, the final decorative component as used here was then meticulously executed from this handcarved model in polymerized chemical compounds specially formulated for high impact and chip resistant qualities.

into production or whether the private airline industry could have even afforded to buy such an expensive plane when it was ready.

I could go on and on about similar "boon-doggles" that the government is currently involved in, such as the space program and, of course, the Vietnam War. In each of these cases, just as in the case of the SST fiasco, the adherents of these programs (big business and their labor stooges) cry to the Congress and the people that many of the members of their unions will lose their jobs, or even more silly, "that we will get behind the Russians" in our space and air programs. What they don't tell us is that they want a free ride on our money to develop a product and then turn it over to free enterprise at a profit to themselves, with the government (the taxpayers) holding the bag.

I keep my faith. One day I am sure, the Congress will see the error of their ways and stop financing the Vietnam War and the Space Program and put that money into the local economy and into the cities where it will do the most good.

Faith rewarder number two this week was the decision of the J.C. Penney company to give up their plans to build a store in the Urban Redevelopment project in Monterey. This myth of building a downtown shopping center in Monterey has been going on for the last 13 years and finally it will come to an abrupt halt with no thanks to the local businessmen and politicians, who have kept that "blight" going for all of these many years. It took a decision of a hard-headed corporation to show the locals that this was a bad idea from the very start.

Downtown Monterey is a bottleneck and a trap. It would be perfect for a tourist attraction because you are right on top of the custom house, a wonderful beach and fishermen's wharf, not to mention being right next door to colorful Cannery Row. What better place to put a convention and tourist center. Let's do the shopping bit out at Del Monte Center where there is room to move around or, even Penney's out to Seaside where there is plenty of room to expand. I don't know about that though. Our own local obstructionist politicians have been giving Payless Drug the stalling treatment for the last year in their attempt to locate a store somewhere in the Laguna Grande area. They are stalling Payless because they hope to get back into power and then again go ahead with the Laguna Grande Project as a tourist-oriented scheme against the best interests of the majority of Seaside's citizens.

The best interest of Seaside would be served if we gave support to Monterey for a convention center in their redevelopment area and asked their support in having businesses and small industries locate here in Seaside where the work force lives. Quit fighting, fellas, and get to work.

Who Cares Volunteer

By Mel Vercoe

Buried treasure on the Monterey Peninsula? Yes, some was dug up just a few days ago - not old Spanish coins, but genuine U. S. greentacks.

I thought I was the only person in this area who does not believe in banks. Instead of depositing money in banks, I spend it as soon as I get it. That way, if the banks should go broke or something I won't lose my money. But now I have learned that at least one other person, a kindly little old lady, doesn't or at least didn't put much stock in banks either. She put her meager little savings in a can and buried the can in a hole in her backyard, carefully camouflaging the spot so that it would be safe from hungry criminal types.

Everything worked well, except of course she was not drawing any interest on her savings, until she noticed one day that her little dog was walking around with a twenty dollar bill in his little mouth. Well, anyway, it turned out that he hadn't borrowed the money from some other dog - he had dug up the can like any respectable dog his size would have done, and was looking for a new place to bury the money.

So now I am informed the kindly old lady has chosen to keep her money in a bank as the lesser of two evils, and if you are a burglar you won't find anything in her backyard except a disgusted and frustrated dog.

And speaking of burglaries, an employee of a bank and another fellow were in the news for having beaten a bank out of seven million dollars, for which they may get as much as three months probation; and a really big one - much bigger - was foiled just a few days ago.

Forty-six United States Senators and a President decline to name at this time got together and tried to transfer well over a hundred million dollars from our public treasury to some airplane manufacturers for the purpose of building two supersonic airplanes that all of them knew nobody would buy. They were caught at the last minute by fifty-one other Senators who chose to put their country ahead of the vested interests of the first group.

Of course, nobody will put them on trial for the attempt or for beating the public treasury out of nine hundred million that was already spent. But then, it is only money, which reminds me of the old saying, "It is better to be rich and healthy than to be poor and sick."

Mills is still at the top of the list of Army GI's most wanted food and drinks.

Aides Needed By Schools

"If you have a contagious smile, you have what it takes to become a school volunteer aide," according to Mrs. Dolores Sweeney, chairman of SVA - The Peninsula-wide School Volunteer Aides group which is recruiting more parent-student just plain citizen volunteers. Even Mrs. Sweeney will admit that may be over simplification, but people who believe they have no special talents may be surprised how many ways they can work with children and teachers to be of real help in education.

An orientation session for prospective volunteer aides is scheduled and all interested persons invited to attend without commitment.

The meeting will be April 14 at Monterey Peninsula College, evening, exact time and program to be announced later.

"SVA is concentrating on elementary schools in the Seaside-Fort Ord area because that is where the need for tutorial and other help is most critical and because there aren't enough volunteers to expand much beyond Ord Terrace School, Cabrillo School, and Covell School in Seaside; the Del Monte School nearby in Monterey and the Hayes School Fort Ord," Mrs. Sweeney said.

Probably the area of greatest need is for volunteers to listen to children read individually or in small groups, but there also is need for help in mathematics.

Mrs. Sweeney said one rewarding experience is to brighten an otherwise mystifying day for a child who speaks no English, to establish a friendly relationship looking at books of other objects until the child begins to pick up English from conversation and sign-language and soon is able to communicate with classmates.

People who want more information may call 373-6664, or may indicate their interest whether or not they can attend the informal training session.

Wives Hear About Problem

Ladies of the US Army Combat Developments Command Experimentation Command, at Fort Ord and the Litton Scientific Support Laboratories, CDCEC's scientific advisory group, met recently for a luncheon at Ferguson Hall, the new Fort Ord Officers Club.

Guests at the luncheon were Captain Wilfredo Lopez, head of the Fort Ord Drug Center, Mrs. Anne Baker of the Monterey County Public Health Department and Mr. Larry Burghardt, director of "Project Aquarius" in Monterey.

All three addressed the group on the subject of the drug problem of young people, stressing the responsibility of parents to educate themselves concerning the drug scene today, and learning to recognize the symptoms when a person is under the influence of drugs.

The ladies were also informed of the new ways their children may become addicted to drugs while in elementary school.

One example was cited of candy, cookies and cakes being spiked with drugs and offered to elementary age children by older boys and girls. After the children are "hooked", their "suppliers" begin selling the drugs instead of giving them to the children.

Captain Lopez explained how the new Fort Ord Drug Center sends their man to schools on the Post to educate the children concerning drugs, through lectures and demonstrations.

Mrs. Baker stressed the fact that today's youth consider drug abuse as a part of our society, a symptom of a changing way of life. Youth, she stated, claim a heightened awareness of today's society while they are under the influence of drugs.

All three speakers stated that their programs are basically threefold, consisting of education about drugs, the treatment and rehabilitation of the drug abuser and the prevention of drug use.

Women of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Administration and Logistics group were hostesses for the luncheon. Chairman of the steering committee was Mrs. Richard F. Parker, with Mrs. Amos J. Rogers, Mrs. John Snapp, Mrs. Richard Peterson and Mrs. Thomas J. Conlin, assisting her.

Fitch Girls Are Winners In Contest

Two ninth grade students at Fitch Junior High School, Fort Ord, both residents of Marina, are winners in the 27th annual AAA School Traffic Poster Contest, judged in San Francisco March 3 by a five-member panel who chose 80 winning posters from 1,450 eligible entries by students in grades 7-8-9. Second place and $25 was won by Cynthia Whitney, 15, daughter of Howard H. and

Mrs. Whitney, 3097 Redwood Circle, Marina. Commendation status was achieved by Grace Moy, 14, daughter of SFC and Mrs. Po Moy of 341 Parson Circle, Marina.

The students and their teacher, Mrs. Ann Koung, each will be presented with framed certificates. All poster entries were forwarded to the AAA headquarters in Washington, D.C. for national competition and judging. Announcement came in a letter to Clato Brochini, principal, from Stuart L. Wright, manager of the traffic engineering and safety department of the California.

Army Has Enlistment Policy

A new Army policy which allows men to enlist for assignment to certain units, thereby choosing where they will serve, was announced recently by the local Recruiting Office.

According to Sergeant Jose Garcia, local Army Recruiter, applicants who are qualified may volunteer to serve in one of the following units: the 1st Infantry Division, stationed at Fort Riley, Kansas; the 1st or 2nd Armored Division at Fort Hood, Texas; the 4th Infantry Division based at Fort Carson, Colorado; the 19th Infantry Brigade at Fort Benning, Georgia; the 3rd Armored Cavalry Regiment at Fort Lewis, Washington.

The new regulation represents a change in former Army Enlistment policy which generally allowed qualified enlistees to choose training they were to receive, but not where they were to be assigned. Now the enlistee can choose where he will be assigned, by enlisting for individual Army units.

The Sergeant said that men who wish to enlist for these units must meet the normal mental and physical standards for enlistment in the Regular Army. There are some slightly higher physical standards, however, for those volunteering for the 82nd Airborne Division which requires its members to complete airborne training before their assignment to the division.

Interested persons may obtain more information about unit enlistment by contacting Sergeant Jose Garcia at 372-4742 or visit his office at 431 Webster St. in Monterey.

Workshop Is On Perception

"We all know more than we know we know. We just have to learn how to make it work for us." That point, says Elizabeth Bliss of Reno, is what the workshop on Perception and Creativity is all about.

The four-day session, April 5 through 8, is scheduled for the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Association, 559 Pacific Street, Monterey. "Twenty years of teaching experience," Mrs. Bliss explained, "have made me more than ever sure that there are two basic major needs of the serious worker in the visual arts. First, there is a need to prepare for the learning experience - in class or studio - so that the individual learns to use what he already has: eyes, emotions, intellect and hands. This makes it possible to get more out of the class or the work in which the artist is engaged. Second is the need to realize that this same application toward the work in progress leads toward becoming one's own best and severest critic."

"Only by meeting these needs," she concluded, "can the class work in technique, the ideas and experience produce work satisfactory to the artist because he can't possibly please anyone if he doesn't first please himself."

The schedule of classes and materials for the workshop may be obtained by writing or telephoning the Museum, 372-5477.

Morning sessions, meeting from 9:30 to noon, will comprise lectures and demonstrations.

Afternoon meetings, from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m., will be devoted to individual problems. The class is limited to twenty persons.

Grunsky Wants No-Knock Law Reinstated

State Senator Donald L. Grunsky has introduced Senate Bill 707 to reinstate the law permitting peace officers to make a search warrant to enter a house without first demanding entry or giving notice to the occupant.

Grunsky said, "This had been the law until 1967, when the case of People vs Gastelo held that the arresting officer could enter without knocking only if the officer, making an arrest, had specific information that the particular house about to be entered harbored armed people or persons having a present intention, to dispose of the evidence."

Grunsky explained, "The result has been that the person to be arrested is given warning allowing time to dispose of contraband and other evidence or, if the officer enters without knocking or other warning, the evidence obtained is inadmissible, permitting the criminal to go free."

Mesa in Arizona derived its name from the Spanish word for "table."

Church Services

The great blessings to mankind through obeying God's biblical commandment, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me" are brought out in the Lesson-Sermon titled "Unreality" to be read in Christian Science Churches next Sunday.

A passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy reads: "One infinite God, good, unifies man and nations; constitutes the brotherhood of man; ends wars; fulfills the Scripture, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself,' annihilates pagan and Christian idolatry,-- whatever is wrong in social, civil, criminal, political, and religious codes; equalizes the sexes; annuls the curse on man, and leaves nothing that can sin, suffer, be punished or destroyed."

Sunday services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Monterey, begin at 10:30 a. m.

Workshop Planned

An Orchestral Workshop for Youth on a symphonic level is being planned by Monterey Peninsula College, under the direction of Symphony Conductor, Haymo Teuber, from June 14 to 26, for serious music students of High School and College age.

Auditions for the Workshop will be held from April 19 to the end of April.

The Workshop will conclude with a public concert of symphonic music conducted by Maestro Teuber.

Information and applications for the Workshop will be given to School Districts throughout Monterey County. For further information, call the Symphony Office, 624-4125.
